This is a team sport, but go in realizing one thing: That two-hour wait in line, that twenty dollar cover charge, those overpriced, watered-down drinks all add up to exactly dick unless you follow a few simple rules. First, a little bit of calibration. Take one good look at your crew. Which one of you's the alpha male? If you don't know, it isn't you. Next, size up the competition. Who's the alpha female? Who's the butterface? Which one's the plus size? Pretty typical configuration. Now, pair up. Yeah, one of you's gonna have to take the grenade. Team sport remember? You're probably gonna wanna rotate that job night to night among the lower ranks of your crew. Cockblocking. A pretty serious offense. It should be dealt with swiftly and effectively, but please. No retaliatory cockblocks. It's bad form. We're gentlemen.
